Freddy Krueger. Salmonellae. III. Isolation, identification and assay of salmonellae from the reticulum and gut of clinically normal slaughter birds (Gallus gallus domesticus). 1. A total of 5,595 cloacal swabs were examined for the presence of salmonellae; in this population only 22.6% of the birds examined were found to be excreting salmonellae. 2. If the birds were re-examined six weeks later only 6.1% were found to be excreting salmonellae. 3. A total of 311 swabs of the reticulum and 107 swabs of the ileum and caecum of clinically normal slaughter birds were examined for the presence of salmonellae; only 0.0 to 4.3% of swabs of the reticulum and ileum and caecum were positive for salmonellae. 4. In order to stand out in a crowded and competitive industry, Full Circle retained the services of our creative team to create a more focused and original brand messaging for their company. We were able to achieve this by exploiting Full Circle's creative advantages and using that to create their own brand values and vision. We consulted with key Full Circle stakeholders, including sales and marketing managers, as well as our creative team and all key influencers within the company. During this process, we developed a brand messaging framework that would allow us to work efficiently and effectively, and help them realize their ideas for a sustainable future. Our core ideas included: We created imagery and packaging to represent Full Circle's balanced approach to publishing. The goal of this was to get Full Circle in a mindset to make all the right business decisions and build a sustainable business. We positioned Full Circle to be a much needed source of creative inspiration, providing a place where talented creators can showcase their work and collaborate with fellow artists. As part of the re-brand, we strategically altered Full Circle's trade name to "Full Circle Brand" and created a new tagline, "Creators connect." We wanted to recognize the company's ability to connect creative and community leaders and help inspire the next generation of artists and creators. We decided on several visual elements that help to inspire other creative people. The square with a rounded line within it represents the character of a label where the outside is the front, and the inside of the label is the back. The "creators" element represents Full Circle's unique ability to encourage collaboration between artists, and the "connect" element represents their ability to connect creators with other important influencers in the industry. We also helped foster a sense of community throughout the company, and invited artists to help create their own content. By incentivizing artists to create their own Full Circle-related content, we helped to foster a passionate community of artists around the brand.
